Daily Morning Checks

This guide walks you through the process of completing your daily morning checks for your brands. By the end of this guide, you will be able to confirm suppression status, review yesterday's sales, compare performance against your monthly projection, investigate any significant changes, and share a clear daily update in the Sales chat.

Before you begin, make sure you have access to Sellerboard, the BI platform, Seller Central, the Keepa browser extension, Bispoke, and the Sales and Amazon Suppressions chats.

Go to sayn-team.monday.com

01 Check for suppressions

Go to the Amazon Suppressions chat and review whether any of your brand's SKUs are currently suppressed. Confirm whether the suppressed listings are matching and note the source of the suppression, since you will include this information in your daily update.

02 Open the Sellerboard dashboard

The screenshot shows the Sellerboard dashboard. The left sidebar has a 'Profit' section expanded, with 'Dashboard' selected. The main area displays a summary of financial metrics for four periods: Yesterday, Month to date, This month (forecast), and Last month. Below this is a table of Order Items.

03 Set the period to recent days

Click Period and choose the option labeled Today, Yesterday, 2 days ago, 3 days ago. This displays a tile for each of the most recent days so you can quickly compare the latest sales activity.

04 Filter by your brand

Search for your brand using its SKU prefix. Every SKU for a brand starts with the same letters, so filtering by the prefix shows all products for that brand.

The screenshot shows a dashboard interface with a search bar at the top. The search bar contains the text 'D-RCO' and a dropdown menu is open, displaying 'Found products'. The dropdown menu lists several products, each with a checkbox, a product icon, and a detailed description including the product name, SKU, and other identifiers. The main dashboard area shows a table of products with columns for Brand / Product, Units sold, Refunds, Sales, Ads, Sellable returns, Gross profit, Net profit, Margin, ROI, BSR, Average selling price, and Info. The table is filtered by the brand 'R+Co'.

09 Review the day over day and week over week columns

Focus on the day over day and week over week columns, labeled DoD and WoW in the report. Day over day compares yesterday's units against the day before. Week over week compares yesterday against the same day last week. Small changes are normal. Large changes that are significant for that brand need to be investigated.

10 Check inventory

Check inventory for every product, not only when sales drop. If sales spiked, confirm you have enough inventory on hand to cover the increased demand. For a quick check, use the BI report and look at the FBM OH and FBA OH columns. For full details, check inventory directly in Seller Central under Manage All Inventory.

11 Check the price history in Keepa

Scroll down the listing to the Keepa price history chart. Price drops on the chart show when a deal was running, so a sales dip right after the price returns to normal usually means the deal just ended, which is expected.

12 Check ad spend in Bispoke

On the same listing, open Bispoke. Review the day over day performance for the SKU, along with the ad spend and ad sales, to see whether a change in advertising could explain the change in sales.

If your brand does not have exclusive buy box for that SKU, also check the buy box percentage. A drop or increase in the share of the buy box you hold can explain a change in sales, since you only earn sales on the portion of the buy box you own.

13 Investigate large, unexplained spikes in Creator Connections

If a SKU shows a spike far larger than a deal would normally cause, check Creator Connections. In Seller Central, go to Advertising, then Creator Connection, and review the active campaigns for that SKU.

A spike like this can happen when a creator posts about the product on social media as part of a paid campaign.

14 Review the product's sales chart in Sellerboard

If you are not yet familiar with a product's typical performance, filter for the product in Sellerboard and open its chart. Going day by day shows you what a normal sales level looks like, so you can judge whether a change is truly unusual.

15 Share your daily update in the Sales chat

Once your checks are complete, put together a short daily update for your brands and post it in the Sales chat. The update typically covers the suppression status, the monthly projection with sales month to date and how you are pacing against plan, the notable day over day and week over week changes with their reasons, and any important updates you are working on, such as purchase orders or stock issues. How you draft the update is up to you. Some brand managers keep a working document to prepare it before posting.

After completing this training, you will be able to efficiently review your brands' daily performance using Sellerboard, the BI platform, Seller Central, Keepa, and Bispoke. Practice these steps to catch significant sales changes early, understand what is driving them, and keep your team informed with a clear daily update in the Sales chat.
